Pupils are not required to attend on staff training days. There may be additional staff training dates arranged that will require the school to close. In the unlikely event of this happening, school will notify parents as soon as the dates are known.

The board of governors are strongly against parents removing children from school during term time for family holidays, etc. The principal and staff have been advised they should not provide extra homework for children whose parents go against this advice. We recognise that work commitments and holiday selection periods often do not align with the academic year, so we will attempt to publish details of holiday dates as early as possible, to enable parents to plan out the coming year and avoid removing children during term time.
